SAT 12:15 Music Feature (b00knsy8)

Ode to Whitman

Rob Cowan explores the attraction to composers of the poetry of Walt Whitman.

Whitman's poetry has inspired an extraordinary number of musical works - there are some 1200 vocal and instrumental settings of his verse by, among others, Vaughan Williams, Delius, Bernstein, Ives, Weill, Hindemith, Holst and John Adams - and the 'Bard of Democracy's optimistic, inclusive, radically free voice continues to appeal to contemporary composers today.

Some of the earliest settings were by English composers, who saw in Whitman a liberation from Victorian jingoism. He represented instead optimism and renewal, a celebration of free speech and free love. Its timeless qualities meant that Whitman's poetry also became a potent force during the Second World War for Kurt Weill and Paul Hindemith, in flight from the Nazis, and looking to forge a new American identity.

Weaving together readings of his poetry with some of the music setting his words, and with contributions from David Reynolds, author of 'Walt Whitman's America,' on the influence of music on Whitman's verse, M. Wynn Thomas on the radical qualities of his poetry, and Jack Sullivan on the musical responses to Whitman, this feature takes in some of the wealth of music Whitman has inspired, and discovers the inherently musical aspects of his writing. Music was such a powerful force on Whitman that he saw himself less as a poet than as a singer or bard, and his verse repeatedly alludes to it: "I sing the body electric", "Song of myself", "I hear America singing" are among his titles. Seeing his poetry as a kind of singing, he highlighted American themes but also integrated operatic techniques - the most profound influence on him being, as he put it, "the great, overwhelming, touching human voice..."

SAT 13:00 The Early Music Show (b00knsyb)
German Organ Mass

Organist Simon Lole explores Bach's so-called German Organ Mass, an acknowledged masterwork of the repertoire, and part of the composer's collection of four great keyboard works, Clavierbung.

Simon presents a selection of high-profile recordings and illustrates some of the ideas in the music from the organ of Jesus College, Cambridge. The wealth of musical styles and musical invention in the collection is notable in itself, but Bach had another motivation for creating this Clavierbung. By unpicking some of its musical codes and symbols, Simon explains its raison d'être and the meaning of the work's moniker.

SAT 16:00 Jazz Library (b00knsyg)
Dave Liebman

Dave Liebman came to fame as the saxophonist in Miles Davis's 1970s band, but he has had a formidable career since the 1980s as a bandleader in his own right, often specialising on the soprano instrument, but also returning to the his first love, the tenor. He joins Alyn Shipton in front of an audience at Cheltenham Town Hall to select the highlights of his recordings.

In this Jazz Library, Dave Liebman, who was the Cheltenham Jazz Festival's artist in residence in 2009, joins Alyn Shipton to look back over his extensive catalogue of recordings, including free solo improvisations, reinterpretations of classical music, tributes to John Coltrane and interpretations of standards. A virtuoso musician who is also a leader in the world of jazz education, Liebman shows his mastery in a variety of settings from playing completely unaccompanied to working with a full-scale big band.

SAT 18:00 Opera on 3 (b00knsyl)

Opera on 3 from the Royal Opera House

Wagner's Der fliegende Hollander

Radio 3's series of operas from the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, continues with Marc Albrecht conducting Tim Albery's new production of Wagner's Der fliegende Hollander, with bass-baritone Bryn Terfel in the title role and soprano Anja Kampe as Senta.

Wagner based his great Romantic opera on Heinrich Heine's story about a Dutch sea captain compelled, as punishment for a blasphemous oath, to sail the oceans for ever unless he's redeemed by the love of a faithful woman. For a while it seems that Senta might be that redeeming angel, but after a misunderstanding the Dutchman is disillusioned once more, and returns to the sea, consigning himself to his fate.

Presented by Martin Handley.

Sonny Rollins

Sonny Rollins, Episode 2

Alyn Shipton concludes his conversation with the great Sonny Rollins, and brings his survey of the saxophonist's recorded output up-to-date.

The programme includes excerpts from Rollins' latest album Sonny Please, and looks back at his work from the time of his 1950s political protest, by way of his score for the Michael Caine film Alfie, and his long association with the Milestone record label, which produced some of his most memorable albums.

MON 00:00 Jazz Line-Up (b00kntn0)

Abram Wilson and Bojan Z

Radio 3 at the Summer Festivals

Julian Joseph presents performances from two very contrasting bands given at the Invention Studio, Bath, for the 2009 Bath Festival.

The programme begins with a set from pianist Bojan Z, who performs with a new line-up. Born in Belgrade, Bojan Zulfikarpasic played the piano for family and friends from a very early age. He later gained a scholarship to study for three months with Clare Fischer at the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp in Michigan in the USA, and currently records on Label Bleu.

In addition, the gig features New Orleans trumpeter and singer Abram Wilson, also a Jazz Warriors member, performing new material with his Quartet.

Joseph Haydn (1732-1809)

Episode 1

For much of his working life, Haydn lived and breathed opera and some of his best music was written for the stage. But until recently, his operas have suffered from chronic under-exposure.

Donald Macleod blows a few layers of dust from these unfairly neglected works and introduces a complete performance of Haydn's very first comic opera, La canterina.

RLPO - Americans Abroad

Presented by Petroc Trelawny.

The Royal Liverpool Philharmonic Orchestra, under chief conductor Vasily Petrenko, perform a concert entitled Americans Abroad, which features Gershwin's orchestral work An American in Paris. That is followed by the UK premiere of Jennifer Higdon's Violin Concerto, played by Grammy award-winning young American violinist Hilary Hahn.

The final work is Elgar's Symphony No 1, described at the time of its premiere in Manchester by conductor Hans Richter as 'the greatest symphony of modern times'.

Julian Arguelles and John Abercrombie at the Cheltenham Jazz Festival 2009

Radio 3 at the Summer Festivals

Jez Nelson presents UK saxophonist Julian Arguelles with US guitarist John Abercrombie in concert at the 2009 Cheltenham Jazz Festival. The group perform new tunes written by Arguelles that demonstrate Abercrombie's versatile technique and reputation as one of the world's leading guitarists.

Abercrombie has been at the forefront of jazz guitar music for the past 30 years, from his Gateway group in the 70s, featuring Dave Holland and Jack DeJohnette, to his recent quartet with violinist Mark Feldman. Birmingham-born Arguelles rose to fame in the 1980s as member of UK big band Loose Tubes. Since then he has released a number of albums as leader of groups ranging from duo to big band and received several BBC Jazz Awards.

TUE 19:00 Performance on 3 (b00kp11d)
Vienna: City of Dreams (Berg, Mahler)

Presented by Petroc Trelawny.

Conductor Esa-Pekka Salonen and the Philharmonia Orchestra continue their Vienna: City of Dreams series with a performance of Mahler's monumental 6th Symphony, which the composer appropriately considered renaming the Tragic. It is paired with Berg's lament on the death of Manon Gropius, the 18-year-old daughter of Mahler's wife, Alma.

Nikolaj Znaider

Radio 3 at the Summer Festivals

As part of the Bath Music Festival 2009, Petroc Trelawny presents a performance by leading Danish violinist Nikolaj Znaider. He has built a particularly strong relationship with the London Symphony Orchestra, and in this programme he is joined by the orchestra's principal leaders.

The programme begins with one of Brahms' most famous chamber works, the Sextet in B flat, Op 18, which is followed by a work heavily indebted to the compositional style of Brahms - Schoenberg's high-Romantic work, Verklarte Nacht.

Nikolaj Znaider (violin)
LSO Chamber Ensemble:
David Alberman (violin)
Edward Vanderspar, Gillianne Haddow (viola)
Tim Hugh (cello)
Rebecca Gilliver (cello)

Brahms: Sextet No 1 in B flat, Op 18

Schoenberg: Verklarte Nacht, Op 4

Followed by part of a series of recordings to celebrate the Bath Music Festival.
