SAT 13:50 Twenty Minutes (b00x0wkj)

Mozart the Englishman

'I am, you know, an out and out Englishman!'

So declared Mozart in a letter to an English friend. Mozart visited London when he was 8 on a concert tour, staying for nearly a year, and picked up a liking for English manners and dress which he retained for the rest of his life.

Historian Sarah Lenton traces Mozart's development as an Englishman, placing it in the context of his English tour, his English friends and pupils, his father's passion for England and the impact of Anglomania on 1790s Viennese culture as a whole.

SAT 14:10 Radio 3 Lunchtime Concert (b00x0xcl)

Serenade in B flat for thirteen wind instruments, K361 "Gran Partita".

SUN 14:30 Private Passions (b00wx6v3)

Mozart Compilation

In honour of Radio 3's New Year celebration of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, Michael Berkeley delves into the Private Passions archive to recall distinguished former guests who chose Mozart among their greatest enthusiasms. The late crime writer Michael Dibdin kicks off with Mozart's String Quartet in G, K387; then comes opera director Graham Vick, who was hard-pressed to narrow his Mozart choices down, but who eventually settled on a scene towards the end of 'The Magic Flute'. Psychologist and novelist Salley Vickers selected the slow movement of the Piano Concerto No.24 in C minor, K491; while actor Lenny Henry, political commentator Jonathan Dimbleby and Children's Laureate Michael Morpurgo all had different reasons for choosing the opening movement of the Piano Sonata in A, K331. Two recent award-winning writers, Booker Prize-winner Howard Jacobson, and Nobel laureate Mario Vargas Llosa, both selected extracts from Mozart's darkest and perhaps most psychologically disturbing opera, 'Don Giovanni'; while actor Simon Callow recalls his stage triumph as Mozart in Peter Shaffer's 'Amadeus', with the Adagio from the Serenade in B flat, K361, played to spine-tingling effect at the pivotal point of the drama. Finally, actor Fiona Shaw chooses the opening chorus of Mozart's last, unfinished work, the Requiem.

SUN 15:30 Mozart on Record (b00x0xf4)

Rob Cowan presents a selection of great Mozart recordings including the String Trio in E flat, K563 performed by the Grumiaux Trio, and the Rondo in A minor, K511 played by Artur Schnabel.

SUN 21:30 Sunday Feature (b007g52h)

Desperately Seeking Mozart

Mozart is one of the most mythologised composers in musical history, his name one of the biggest brands on the planet. Even while Mozart was still alive, myths formed around him - about his character, his extraordinary prodigiousness and, above all, his early death. But who was the real Mozart? In this Sunday Feature, repeated from 2006, Professor Paul Robertson, leading Mozart specialists, and experts in brain science, try to find out.

SUN 22:30 Words and Music (b00x0xjc)

Mozart: An Inspiration

Mozart's genius has inspired many artists to comment on his musical creativity. This edition of Words & Music focuses on the writers inspired by Mozart to a new creativity of their own. Michael Pennington and Olivia Williams read from authors including Eduard Morike, Sara Teasdale, Hardy, Goethe, and Wallace Stevens, accompanied by some of Mozart's finest music.

SUN 23:30 Apollo et Hyacinthus (b00x0xjm)

Reflecting today's Wunderkind theme, a performance of Mozart's early opera Apollo et Hyacinthus, K38, written when the composer was just eleven years old. Leopold Hager conducts the Salzburg Mozarteum and soloists including Arleen Auger and Anthony Rolfe Johnson.

Philharmonia Baroque All-Mozart Programme

Petroc Trelawny introduces an all-Mozart concert recorded at the Herbst Theater in San Francisco featuring the Philharmonia Baroque Orchestra, one of America's finest period instrument ensembles. The concert opens with incidental music written for the play Thamos, King of Egypt, one of the composer's early forays into music for the theatre. The fortepiano supremo Robert Levin joins the orchestra for the innovative Piano Concerto in D minor and also plays the concerto movement only recently attributed to a seven-year old-Mozart. The programme concludes with Mozart's majestic final symphony, the 'Jupiter'. Nicholas McGegan conducts.

The Genius of Mozart

Grand Tour Day

A Mozart selection for breakfast-time listening. With Rob Cowan.

TUE 09:00 Classical Collection (b00wwp7z)

Tuesday - Sarah Walker

Sarah's guest today is the conductor, violinist and keyboard player Roy Goodman. Roy was closely associated with the historically informed performance movement from the 1970s onwards. He will discuss the advantages of performing Mozart's music on the instruments for which they were originally composed, and the way the style of Mozart playing has developed over the last 35 years.

Music highlights include:

Missa brevis, K49

Leipzig Radio Chorus and Orchestra,
Herbert Kegel (conductor)

Violin Sonata in B flat, K31

Rachel Podger (violin),
Gary Cooper (fortepiano)

The Genius of Mozart

Francesco Piemontesi

Our lunchtime exploration of Mozart's Concertos continues with the first in a series of three concerts from Studio 7 in Manchester. The BBC Philharmonic is joined by New Generation Artist Francesco Piemontesi for one of the six piano concertos Mozart wrote in 1784, his annus mirabilis for composing this series of works. He also plays one of the set of Sonatas written in Munich a decade earlier and this live broadcast begins with a dark masterpiece, the Adagio and Fugue in C minor, for strings.

The Genius of Mozart

Grand Tour Day: Lucio Silla

Mozart composed Lucio Silla for performance in Milan and though he was still only in his late teens he produced a work that stands comparison with anything written by his contemporaries. The story is set in Ancient Rome and tells of the dictatorial emperor Lucio Silla and his love for Giunia. She, however, is in love with and engaged to be married to the exiled senator Cecilio. In Act One Giunia shuns Silla. In Act Two plotters against the emperor or try to persuade Giunia to marry Silla and then murder him, but she refuses. Silla has Cecilio arrested and thrown into prison and he reminds Giunia that to refuse the Emperor means certain death. But in Act Three Cecilio's friend Cinna manages to persuade Silla to change his mind. He relents, agrees to Giunia and Cecilio's marriage - and even renounces the throne, admitting that 'a virtuous heart is more pleasing to the spirit than false splendour'. So love triumphs and all ends in rejoicing.

BBC National Orchestra of Wales, Ronald van Spaendonck

Elin Manahan Thomas presents a live concert from BBC Hoddinott Hall in Cardiff as part of Radio 3's celebration of The Genius of Mozart.

Clarinetist Ronald van Spaendonck (a former New Generation

Artist) joins the BBC National Orchestra of Wales for Mozart's last great instrumental composition. Written in 1791, it was created for Anton Stadler, a brilliant exponent of the clarinet - still a relatively new instrument at that time. It represents a culmination of all Mozart's great achievements in the concerto form, and has become one of the best-loved compositions in the entire classical repertoire. Richard Egarr is also Music Director of the Academy of Ancient Music, and today he conducts the BBC National Orchestra of Wales in Mozart's Symphony No. 38 - also known as the "Prague" symphony, where the first performance took place in January 1787. It's infused with shadowy overtones of Don Giovanni - the opera which Mozart wrote later that year. The symphony was an immediate success, and remained popular in the Bohemian capital for years to come.

The Genius of Mozart

Escape from Salzburg/Turkish Night

Rob Cowan presents a Mozart selection.

FRI 09:00 Classical Collection (b00wx4s2)

Friday - Sarah Walker

Today Sarah's guest is Professor Paul Robertson, who led the Medici String Quartet for 34 years. He combines an international concert career with his passion for exploring musical responses in scientific research and the neurology of musicality. He has been particularly closely associated with the so-called "Mozart Effect" which came to prominence in the early 1980s, suggesting that listening to Mozart actually improved your mental health. Paul will be discussing the healing properties of Mozart's music, the pleasures and challenges of playing Mozart's chamber music, and discussing CDs of the Medici's Mozart recordings.

FRI 12:00 Donald Macleod's Mozart (b00wx4s4)
Escape from Salzburg

Donald Macleod maps out Mozart's life-story, plays many of his favourite works and tries to fathom why for him Mozart's music will always remain a constant companion. Today he looks at Mozart's ultimately futile first attempt to sever links with Salzburg, an excursion which left the young man bereaved and broken-hearted.

The Genius of Mozart

BBC Philharmonic, Shai Wosner

The BBC Philharmonic is joined by former New Generation Artist Shai Wosner in the E flat Concerto (K 482), in which the winds of the BBC Philharmonic almost share equal billing with the piano soloist. One of Mozart's exploratory Fantasias provides a centrepiece and the programme begins with the arresting overture to his penultimate opera, Die Zauberflöte.

The Genius of Mozart

Mozart - Die Entführung aus dem Serail

Petroc Trelawny introduces a complete performance of Mozart's "Turkish" opera, Die Entführung aus dem Serail, K384, conducted by Nikolaus Harnoncourt.

Mozart wrote the Abduction from the Seraglio in 1781 just after he had moved to Vienna, a city that had been besieged by the Turkish armies less than 100 years before. Now with the threat from the Ottoman Empire a receding memory, Turkish settings and the spicy exotic sounds of Turkish military bands became all the rage for composers in Vienna and it was against this background that Mozart wrote his German language 'singspiel' for the city's Burgtheater.

It tells the story of a young nobleman Belmonte and his attempts to rescue his betrothed Konstanze and their servants Pedrillo and Blonde from the Palace of Pasha Selim and the clutches of the Pasha's henchman Osmin. However at the moment when Belmonte's plans go awry and the quartet are at the mercy of the Pasha the ruler's humanity and enlightenment shine through and the prisoners are set free.

Belmonte - Peter Schreier (tenor)
Konstanze - Yvonne Kenny (soprano)
Osmin - Matti Salminen (bass)
Blonde - Lillian Watson (soprano)
Pedrillo - Wilfried Gamlisch (tenor)
Pasha Selim - Wolfgang Reichmann (speaking role)

Zurich Opera Chorus
Mozart Orchestra of Zurich Opera
Nikolaus Harnoncourt (conductor).
