Lufthansa Festival of Baroque Music: Kimberly Marshall

Catherine Bott meets American organist Kimberly Marshall and introduces highlights from a concert she gave in London earlier this year.

SAT 14:00 Radio 3 Lunchtime Concert (b01n11q6)

Noriko Ogawa

Live from the Wigmore Hall, London, acclaimed Debussy interpreter Noriko Ogawa performs all twelve of Debussy's piano Études (studies), which the composer described as hiding 'rigorous technique behind flowers of harmony'. These Debussy composed towards the end of his life in 1915 while he worked on a new edition of Chopin's piano works. And to highlight Debussy's feel for the Orient, Noriko Ogawa places Rain Tree Sketch II by Japanese Toru Takemitsu at the start of her recital. Written in homage to another great contributor to French Piano literature, Olivier Messiaen, this short work whispers ethereally, the pianist asked to render the music 'Celestially light'.

Presented by Sarah Walker.

Takemitsu: Rain Tree Sketch II
Debussy: 12 Etudes

Noriko Ogawa (piano).

SAT 15:00 Saturday Classics (b01n6qw4)

Piano Season: Gwilym Simcock

Continuing the Piano Season on the BBC, jazz pianist and composer Gwilym Simcock chooses a selection of works reflecting his diverse musical influences.

Gwilym Simcock is one of the most gifted pianists and imaginative composers on the British scene. Able to move effortlessly between jazz and classical music, he can inhabit both worlds and has been described as stylistically reminiscent of Keith Jarrett, complete with 'harmonic sophistication and subtle dovetailing of musical traditions' as well as being a pianist of 'exceptional', 'brilliant' and 'dazzling' ability. Gwilym's influences include jazz legends Keith Jarrett, Chick Corea and John Taylor and classical composers such as Ravel, Stravinsky and Mark-Anthony Turnage.

Gwilym is the fourth of a series of five guest presenters, who have been offering a selection of music reflecting their personal musical interests and passions related to the piano. These have been recorded for Saturday Classics especially for the Piano Season on the BBC.

SAT 17:00 Jazz Record Requests (b01n6qw6)

In this week's programme Alyn Shipton introduces more listeners' jazz requests for the BBC piano season, including music by Ray Bryant, Don Shirley and Allen Toussaint among others. And there's music from Don Byas, Don Cherry and Leo Watson.

SAT 18:00 Opera on 3 (b01n6qw8)

Mozart's The Magic Flute

One of Mozart's last works, The Magic Flute is by turns sublime and ridiculous. It's an opera where true love, jealousy and freemasonry are afoot in an imaginary ancient Egypt. And with its evil Queen of the Night, giant serpent, pairs of lovers and, of course, magic flute it could well be a pantomime farce. But it just happens to have some of the greatest music Mozart ever wrote. This performance was recorded at the 2012 Salzburg Festival with veteran period instrument specialist Nikolaus Harnoncourt conducting his long-time ensemble, the Vienna Concentus Musicus. Presented by Andrew McGregor.

Sarastro.....Georg Zeppenfeld (Bass)

The Contemporary Piano

Episode 2

As part of the Piano Season on the BBC, Nicolas Hodges joins Sara Mohr-Pietsch for the second of two programmes exploring the contemporary pianists and piano repertoire, including music by Boulez, Stockhausen, Cardew, Feldman and Finnis. And in the Hear and Now 50, Tom Service introduces American composer John Zorn's Carny - a dazzling piano collage of everything from Mozart to Fats Waller, Chopin to Schoenberg, and cocktail piano to Elliott Carter.

SUNDAY 07 OCTOBER 2012SUN 00:00 Geoffrey Smith's Jazz (b01n6r00)

Duke Ellington

It's a jazz truism that, though Duke Ellington played piano, his real instrument was his band. But it's also true that he had a great and unique keyboard style, as full of colour and imagination as his orchestrations. Geoffrey Smith Jazz will present the full glory of Ellington the pianist, in solos and ensembles large and small.

SUN 07:00 Breakfast (b01n6r04)

Sunday - Martin Handley

Martin Handley presents Radio 3's classical breakfast show, featuring the next instalment of Peter Donohoe's 50 Great Pianists at 8:30 as part of Piano Season on the BBC.

SUN 09:00 Sunday Morning (b01n6r06)

The BBC Piano Season continues in this morning's programme with James Jolly's selection of vintage performances by Jorge Bolet and Earl Wild. There will also be more music from Peter Donohoe's "piano great" of the day, and this week's Bach cantata. First performed in October 1726, Gott soll allein mein Herze haben (God alone shall have my heart), BWV 169, is written for contralto and chamber orchestra. Today's recording is by Janet Baker and the Bath Festival Orchestra, conducted by Yehudi Menuhin.

SUN 12:00 Private Passions (b01n6r08)

Michele Roberts

Michael Berkeley's guest on Private Passions is the novelist and short story writer Michele Roberts. The child of a French mother and English father, she was brought up and still divides her time between the two countries. She studied English at Oxford University, worked for the British Council, and then became a writer. She is currently Emeritus Professor of Creative Writing at the University of East Anglia.

She is the author of twelve highly acclaimed novels, including

'Daughters of the House' (1992), which was shortlisted for the Booker Prize and won the W H Smith Literary Award; 'Flesh and Blood' (1994), 'The Looking Glass' (2000), 'Reader, I Married Him' (2005), and her latest novel, 'Ignorance' (2012), a war-time novel set in France. She has also published a memoir, 'Paper Houses', dealing with the themes that inform her novels - love, feminist ideals and the legacy of her Catholic upbringing; and a collection of short stories of sex and love, entitled 'Mud' (2010).

Music has always played an important part in Michele Roberts's life, and her choices begin with Bach's Magnificat and continue with an aria from Handel's cantata 'Donna, che in ciel di tanta luce splendi', in praise of the Virgin Mary. Michele says she wanted to be a nun as a teenager, and became fascinated by female mystics and saints, including Hildegard of Bingen. She loves Kathleen Ferrier's voice, singing Handel's 'O Thou that tellest good tidings to Zion', which she finds very comforting. She also appreciates the voices of Alfred Deller, Jacques Brel and Bob Dylan, as well as an Italian women partisans' song, Bella Ciao, which appeals to her republican sympathies, and the Portuguese fado singer Mariza. Her choices end as they began, with Bach.

SUN 13:00 The Early Music Show (b01n6r0b)

"...A Piano Sensation..."

Jan Ladislav Dussek was a Bohemian composer and pianist of the late 18th Century. He was the first great touring piano virtuoso paving the way for the likes of Franz Liszt. It was Dussek who first thought of playing the piano sideways on to the audience - the better to show off his noble profile.

Lucie Skeaping looks back on his life and music - much of which seems to anticipate the innovations and ideas of Beethoven and Schubert.

Broadcast as part of the Piano Season on the BBC.

SUN 14:00 Sunday Concert (b01n6r0d)

BBC Philharmonic - Wagner

Recorded at The Bridgewater Hall, Manchester

Presented by Stuart Flinders

The BBC Philharmonic, conducted by Juanjo Mena, performs Wagner's Tannhäuser Overture, Wesendonck Lieder and excerpts from Götterdämmerung.

SUN 17:00 Choir and Organ (b00s113c)

Choral Accompanists

Aled Jones spotlights the role of the choral accompanist - a pivotal position in the choral team whether preparing a choral society, supporting a church choir on the organ or conjuring up the sound of an orchestra. He talks to three highly experienced practitioners: Sarah Baldock, Organist and Master of the Choristers at Chichester Cathedral, Iain Farrington, accompanist to the London Philharmonic Choir, and Cardiff-based Jeffrey Howard whose career takes him from the organ-loft to playing for singers 'Only Men Aloud'.

Together they discuss the challenges, ways to improve your game, and highlight some of the finest exponents of this often underappreciated job.

First broadcast in April 2010.

SUN 18:30 Words and Music (b01n6r1r)

Get Thee to a Nunnery

Music, poetry and prose on the theme of Nuns. Read by Sheila Hancock and Ellie Kendrick.

The figure of the nun has long exerted a powerful influence on the imagination.

From the chaste and pious figure of St Teresa of Avila to the tragic and imprisoned nuns of Puccini's Suor Angelica and Diderot's The Nun. From the courageous martyrs of Poulenc's Dialogues des Carmelites to the sexually transgressive and possessed nuns of the convent at Loudun.

There's the sad nun, disappointed in love, as portrayed by Alexander Pope in Eloisa to Abelard. The Courtesan who finds redemption in Massenet's Thais. The ghostly terrifying figure of the nun in Matthew Lewis' The Monk. And of course nuns have been the source of much comedy, such as Chaucer's social climbing Prioress, or the men dressed as nuns in Rossini's Comte Ory.

For centuries entering a convent was one of the few ways women could gain independence and express themselves in music and poetry. Saint Hildegard of Bingen, who founded two monasteries in the 12th Century, is one of the most significant early composers of Western music, and the 17th Century Italian nun Caterina Assandra also achieved recognition and fame for her work. Her beautiful motet Duo Seraphim has been one of my favourite discoveries in making this programme.

Producer: Timothy Prosser.

SUN 19:45 Sunday Feature (b01n6r1t)

Renouncing India

Jatinder Verma examines the growing tension in India between the ingrained religious way of life and the powerful modernised society around it, as he explores the role of the ascetic in modern Indian life and culture.

India has aspirations to become a new global superpower. The middle class is over 300 million strong and growing fast. But India still operates as a deeply structured traditional society, with rigid religious codes and a caste system underpinning all aspects of life, especially in rural areas.

Jatinder Verma considers the impact of the ascetic on Indian mainstream life and politics and asks whether it can survive the profound economic transformation that is taking place in India at present.

According to traditional scriptures, the ideal life in India should be lived in defined stages. Between the ages of 12-25 you are a student, between 25-50 you should be a householder, from 50-75 you take the role of an elder, and from 75 you are encouraged to become an ascetic - totally renouncing the world and its possessions to live beyond the normal rules of society.

"Renouncing India" describes the lives of ascetics in India including the more extreme younger religious dropouts. It contrasts religious culture in one of the most globalised cities in India, Delhi, with life in one of India's most religious cities, Varanasi, on the banks of the Ganges. What does such a spectacularly radical tradition, where men and women give up their homes and families to undergo severe penance, say about the nature of Indian modernity?

SUN 20:30 Drama on 3 (b01n6r1w)

A Doll's House

Tanika Gupta transposes the setting of Ibsen's classic play to India in 1879 where 'Nora', now Niru, is an Indian woman married to 'Torvald', now Tom, an English man working for the British Colonial Administration in Calcutta. Niru risks her own reputation in order to save her husband's and in the process discovers herself. This new version of A Doll's House takes a fresh look at the play shining a light on British colonial history and race relations as well as gender politics and class.

Tabla Maestro, Shahbaz Hussain
Dancer, Anjum Malik.

SUN 22:25 World Routes (b01n6r1y)

Darbar Festival 2012

North Indian Music for Flute and Surbahar

Lopa Kothari introduces highlights from the Darbar Festival of Indian classical music, which took place last weekend at the Purcell Room in London. In a programme of North Indian music, Pandit Rajendra Prasanna plays ragas on the bamboo flute, and Pushparaj Koshti performs on the deep-toned surbahar.

The Darbar Festival has established itself as the UK's premier festival of Indian classical music, a four-day event with concerts in the mornings and afternoons as well as in the evenings, allowing for performances of ragas associated with specific times of the day. The festival has always championed the lesser-known music of South India, as well as the more familiar Hindustani music. This is the second of three programmes devoted to this year's Festival.

Schubert: Sonata in A minor for Arpeggione and Piano D.821
The Building a Library recommendation from last Saturday's CD Review

Simon Callow CBE is one of Britain's best-known stage and screen actors. He has appeared in many films, including Four Weddings and a Funeral, Shakespeare in Love, Phantom of the Opera, Amadeus, and A Room with a View. As a stage actor, Simon has played some of the theatre's most iconic roles, ranging from Titus Andronicus, Mozart in Amadeus and Faust, to Oscar Wilde in The Importance of Being Oscar, Captain Hook, and Pozzo in Waiting For Godot, opposite Sir Ian McKellen, Ronald Pickup and Patrick Stewart. His lifelong passion for classical music has seen him directing opera productions and appearing alongside various orchestras around the world, as well as presenting documentaries and writing about composers and their work.

Simon is also a prolific author, having written thirteen books. These include Being an Actor, Shooting the Actor, a highly acclaimed biography of Charles Laughton, a biographical trilogy of Orson Welles (of which the first two parts have now been published), Love is Where it Falls and his memoir My Life in Pieces. As both an actor and writer, Simon has come to be greatly associated with the work of Charles Dickens. He has played the role of the writer on stage, film and television, including An Audience with Charles Dickens (BBC, 1996) and a 2005 episode of Doctor Who. He has also performed in several of Dickens' theatre pieces: Dr Marigold & Mr Chops, and A Christmas Carol. His latest book, Charles Dickens and the Great Theatre of the World, was published earlier this year.

MON 12:00 Composer of the Week (b01n6rnc)

Claude Debussy (1862-1918)

Episode 1

Debussy showed his talent for music from an early age, he was just ten years old when he entered the Paris Conservatoire, but it was to be a long journey before this precocious pianist grew into a mature composer. Presented by Donald Macleod.

MON 13:00 Radio 3 Live in Concert (b01n6rnf)

Wigmore Hall: Jennifer Johnston

Live from Wigmore Hall, London.

Presented by Katie Derham.

Live from London's Wigmore Hall. British mezzo-soprano and Radio 3 New Generation Artist Jennifer Johnston sings Wolf, Britten and Mahler accompanied by pianist Joseph Middleton.

Wolf's settings of Goethe's poetry about the young girl Mignon occupies the first half of the concert. The sequence ending with 'Kennst du das Land' - 'Do you know the land' - Mignon's words of longing for her homeland from which she was cruelly snatched as a child. Another sort of longing ends Mahler's Ruckert Lieder as the poet of 'Ich bin der Welt abhanden gekommen' yearns for withdrawal from the everyday turmoil of the world into the most meaningful aspects of his life: his heaven, his life, and his song.

Wolf: Mignon I ('Heiss mich nicht reden')
Wolf: Mignon II ('Nur wer die Sehnsucht kennt')
Wolf: Mignon III ('So lasst mich scheinen')
Wolf: Kennst du das Land
Trad (arr. Britten): Ca' the Yowes
Trad (arr. Britten): At the mid hour of night
Trad (arr. Britten): O waly waly
Mahler: Five Ruckert Lieder: Blicke mir nicht in die Lieder;
Ich atmet einen linden Duft; Um Mitternacht; Liebst du um
Schonheit; Ich bin der Welt abhanden gekommen

Jennifer Johnston (mezzo-soprano)
Joseph Middleton (piano).

MON 14:00 Afternoon Concert (b01n6rnh)

BBC Scottish Symphony Orchestra

Episode 1

This week Louise Fryer presents recent performances by the BBC Scottish Symphony Orchestra, with a special focus on piano concertos as part of Radio 3's continuing Piano Season. Today, as bookends, Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 9 'Jeunehomme' and Anton Rubinstein's colossal Piano Concerto No. 4, from the Romantic Piano Concertos series on the Hyperion label pioneered by the BBC SSO back in 1990.

Plus a BBC SSO concert given in September as part of the Lammermuir Festival 2012 featuring Nielsen's overture 'Helios', Elgar's Cello Concerto - with soloist Narek

Hakhnazaryan - and two works by Sibelius, Scene with Cranes (from his incidental music for Kuolema) and his Symphony No. 5.

MON 16:30 In Tune (b01n6rnk)

Colin Currie, Ludus Baroque, Mary Bevan, Katya Apekisheva

Sean Rafferty's guests include British percussionist Colin Currie, as he prepares for the world premiere of Julia Wolfe's riSE and FLY with the BBC Concert Orchestra - bringing 'the street' into the orchestra with body percussion, chain gang tunes and a battery of street percussion, in a dramatically rhythmic and emotional work.

There's live performance from Ludus Baroque with soprano Mary Bevan, who are dropping in ahead of the launch of the St Andrews Voices festival, and pianist Katya Apekisheva who will shortly give a masterclass at the Guildhall.

Also today, In Tune's A to Z of the Piano, part of the Piano Season on the BBC, continues with N for Novels - exploring the piano's starring role in literature from Jane Austen to Alan Hollinghurst. The series of bite-sized features includes contributions from many of the world's greatest pianists, and provides context, history and background information - both in-depth and quirky - broadcast in daily instalments on In Tune at 5.30pm and available to download as a podcast.

Main headlines are at 5pm and 6pm.

MON 22:00 Night Waves (b01n6rnm)

Paul Auster, Catalan Independence, Ruby Sparks, Edmund de Waal

Anne McElvoy talks to novelist and film director Paul Auster whose new memoir "Winter Journal" is a follow up to his 1982 acclaimed early account The Invention of Solitude.

As the people of Catalonia go to the polls later this month Anne discusses the urge towards independence with Radio 3 New Generation Thinker Adriana Sinclair, a lecturer in International Relations at the University of East Anglia, Alfred Bosch, a Spanish MP and member of the pro-Catalan Independence party Esquerra, and Joseph Farrell from Strathclyde University.

There's a review from Jon Adams of Ruby Sparks, a new film written by and starring Zoe Kazan, the granddaughter of celebrated Hollywood director Elia Kazan.

And Anne talks to Edmund de Waal whose new exhibition, A Thousand Hours, is showing at the Alan Cristea Gallery. Edmund de Waal's work, whether it be in his family memoir, The Hare With the Amber Eyes, or his installations of vitrines of his simple porcelain pots, is a meditation on memory and the missing.

Producer Natalie Steed.

MON 22:45 The Essay (b01n6rnp)

Inspirations of Visual Art

Something Unseen

Something Unseen

Painter Alison Watt explores the inspirations behind her artwork, in an essay recorded in front of an audience at the Ingleby Gallery in Edinburgh. This is the first in a five-part series about artistic inspirations delivered by artists based in Scotland working in a variety of media. Later in the series Andrew Millar, Kevin Harman, Ruth Ewan, and Claire Barclay all talk about their work.

Alison Watt was born in Greenock in 1965 and studied at Glasgow School of Art. Her exquisitely painted canvases suggest swathes of fabric edging towards the abstract whilst retaining a strange, almost sensual quality suggestive of a human presence or absence. From 2006 to 2008, Watt was the Associate Artist at The National Gallery in London. Her work is held in many prestigious public collections including Uffizi Gallery, Florence, The National Portrait Gallery, London, The Scottish National Gallery of Modern Art and the British Council.

MON 23:00 Jazz on 3 (b01n6rnr)

Music from the Leeds Improvising Scene

Jez Nelson presents music from the Leeds improvising scene including a set from Shatner's Bassoon, a sextet led by recent Leeds College of Music graduates, keyboardist Johnny Richards and bass player Mick Bardon.

Recorded in front of an enthusiastic home-town audience at the city centre's Fusebox night, their music veers from math-rock to sounds of the circus, with irreverent humour never far away.

The programme also includes a visit to The Shed in Brawby, north Yorkshire's hub of improvised happenings now celebrating its twentieth season. Trombonist Gail Brand explores how the venue has maintained both a strong audience and a challenging agenda - past exploits have included Lol Coxhill playing in a skip and Mrs Boyes' Bingo (a duet for bingo caller and percussion) - and takes part in a specially-created event, Shed Builder, improvising in a workshop with a welder.

Presenter: Jez Nelson
Producers: Peggy Sutton & Phil Smith.

WED 16:30 In Tune (b01n6v9g)
Wednesday - Sean Rafferty

Sean Rafferty's guests include conductor Josep Pons and members of the cast of the performance of Ravel's dazzling comedy L'Heure Espagnol, which they will give with the BBC Symphony Orchestra at the Barbican in London this week.

Also today, In Tune's A to Z of the Piano, part of the Piano Season on the BBC, continues with P for Page Turner - exploring this unsung but crucial - and often nerve-wracking - role of the piano world. The series of bite-sized features includes contributions from many of the world's greatest pianists, and provides context, history and background information - both in-depth and quirky - broadcast in daily instalments on In Tune at 5.30pm and available to download as a podcast.

Main headlines are at 5pm and 6pm.

WED 19:30 Radio 3 Live in Concert (b01n6wsb)
Live from the Lighthouse, Poole

Prokofiev

Live from the Lighthouse, Poole

The Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra and Kirill Karabits continue their important Prokofiev cycle and the brilliant twenty-six year old pianist, Denis Kozhukin, joins them to play Rachmaninov's Fourth Piano Concerto.

Presented by Martin Handley

Prokofiev Symphony No.3

Rachmaninov Piano Concerto No.4

Ravel La Valse

Denis Kozhukhin (piano)
Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra, Kirill Karabits (conductor)

Principal conductor, Kirill Karabits's brilliantly conceived programme pairs two works written in 1926 but conceived over a much longer time frame. Music from Prokofiev's opera, The Fiery Angel, is re-worked in gloriously symphonic terms in his rarely heard Third Symphony whilst Rachmaninov Fourth Piano Concerto ended an eight year drought following the composer's enforced move from his homeland following the Russian Revolution. The Novgorod-born, Denis Kozhukhin is the soloist in this concerto - as much for the orchestra as the pianist - which is by turns improvisatory, jazzy and yet typically noble. Ravel's deadly-aimed shot at the lost world of Imperial Vienna rounds off the programme in a crescendo of the macabre.

WED 20:05 Twenty Minutes (b013m47n)
Moscow during the War

Sasha Dugdale unpacks the official Soviet myths which helped sustain the Russian people during World War Two and celebrates the personal poetry which later gave a more truthful reflection of their experience.

Linking in with the twentieth century Russian music in the first part of the concert, the poet and translator Sasha Dugdale explores how the Soviet government promulgated a complex blend of truth and lies in order to sustain the Russian people during the darkest hours of what they called The Great Patriotic War.

Drawing on oral testimony, journalism and broadcasting, she considers the continuing psychological impact of these stories on the Russian people, even today.

By contrast, Sasha celebrates the poetry which was written at the time and which provides a more truthful picture of real Russian heroism.

Readers: Gerard McDermott and Elaine Claxton

Producer: Beaty Rubens

(Repeat).

WED 22:00 Night Waves (b01n6v74)
Kofi Annan

The former UN Secretary General, Kofi Annan, is Philip

Dodd's guest in this evening's Night Waves. It's a wide ranging and personal conversation which touches, as you might expect on Bosnia, Rwanda, Iraq and Syria but also on the debt Kofi Annan owes to his father. The Nobel Prize winner recalls his initiation as a student into the American way of life and his rude introduction to the cold of a Minnesotan winter; there's a wry reminiscence about negotiating with Yasser Arafat; a sharp analysis of the challenges facing the UN in the future and the frustrations and rewards of being Secretary General; as well, of course, as some of the sadness that comes with the job.

Producer Zahid Warley.

WED 22:45 The Essay (b01n6v76)
Inspirations of Visual Art

Never Do I Work Alone

Artist Ruth Ewan, a creator of sound installations, explores the inspirations for her art in an essay recorded in front of an audience at the Ingleby Gallery in Edinburgh.

Ruth Ewan was born in Scotland, and now lives and works in London. Her work takes many forms including performance, installation and printed work. Ewan's work encourages elements of performance and participation - in the past she has worked with historians, traditional craftsmen, musicians and school children.

The third in a five-part series about artists and the inspiration behind their work.

WED 23:00 Late Junction (b01n6v78)
Wednesday - Verity Sharp

Including blues from Duffy Power, ambience from Borealis, the music of Robert Fripp played by the Metropole Orchestra and part of a piece by Korean improviser Ryu Hankil that uses a typewriter to trigger samples. Plus Abduvali Abdurashidov & Wu Man explore the music of Central Asia on pipa and bowed lute, and harpsichordist Olivier Baumont plays Couperin.

THU 22:00 Night Waves (b01n6vrD)

Mo Yan, Anish Kapoor, All that Fall, Frontline Medicine

The Nobel Prize for literature was awarded today to the Chinese author Mo Yan. Rana Mitter joins Samira Ahmed to tell us about the writer's work and what it will mean to China to win a Nobel Prize.

Anish Kapoor, creator of the Orbit sculpture for the Olympic Park, goes small scale with an exhibition of new sculpture small enough to fit in the home. He talks to Samira about ghostly sounds and why small is best.

Susannah Clapp joins Samira with a first night review of Samuel Beckett's play, All that Fall. Written in 1956 for Radio 3 - then the Third Programme - the play is being performed in a rare stage production directed by Trevor Nunn and starring Eileen Atkins and Michael Gambon.

When Harvard University announced they'd discovered a fragment of text proving that Jesus was married the Vatican declared it a fake. Samira looks at how the discovery reflects on disputes in the early Church about role of women in Christianity with Morwenna Ludlow and Elaine Storkey.

And we discuss a new exhibition on Frontline Medicine at the Imperial War Museum North. Samira talks to New Generation Thinker Charlotte Bleas and historian Joanna Bourke.

Producer: Allegra McIlroy.

BBC National Orchestra of Wales

Thomas Søndergård, Conductor

Danish conductor Thomas Søndergård makes his debut as Principal Conductor with the BBC National Orchestra of Wales at St. David's Hall in Cardiff. Thomas first conducted the orchestra in 2009 and immediately felt truly supported by each and every individual player. Now he takes the reins at the helm for the first time, he's looking forward to "creating memorable performances that will enable us to celebrate and share our love for the music with our audiences". In this concert he welcomes Inger Dam-Jensen back to St. David's Hall, where she was crowned Cardiff Singer of the World in 1993.

FRI 22:00 The Verb (b01n6x08)

The Verb at Oktoberfest, Sheffield

Ian McMillan presents Radio 3's 'Cabaret of the word'. This week it comes from the BBC's Oktoberfest at The Crucible in Sheffield, with guests Charlie Higson, Blake Morrison, Luke Wright, John Watterson and Helen Mort.

Charlie Higson is an actor, comedian and writer - best known to parents for his performances as comic characters like Swiss Toni and Sir Ralph Mayhew on The Fast Show, and to their children for his Young Bond series, which has now sold over a million copies in the UK. Charlie is a huge fan of horror films and books, and talks to Ian about 'Sacrifice', the latest in his zombie series for teens (Puffin).

Luke Wright is a poet who writes satirical tales about British life from his vantage point in East Anglia. Originally an Essex boy, Luke performs a poem inspired by the songs of a Yorkshire man - the late Jake Thackray, and explains why he thinks it's time for a Thackray revival.

Musician John Watterson tours as Fake Thackray, taking Jake's songs to venues across the UK. He performs 'Little Black Foal' and 'Rain on the Mountainside'.

Blake Morrison was born in Burnley, and grew up in Skipton. His books include two poetry collections, Dark Glasses and The Ballad of the Yorkshire Ripper; two bestselling memoirs, And When Did You Last See Your Father and Things My Mother Never Told Me; a children's book, The Yellow House; several play adaptations and libretti; and three novels, including South of the River and The Last Weekend. He lives in south London and is Professor of Creative Writing at Goldsmiths College. Blake reads from A Discoverie of Witches, a collaboration between Smith/Doorstop and Lancaster Litfest.

Helen Mort has published two pamphlets with tall-lighthouse press, 'the shape of every box' and 'a pint for the ghost', a Poetry Book Society Choice for Spring 2010. Five-times winner of the Foyle Young Poets award, she became the youngest ever poet in residence at The Wordsworth Trust, Grasmere. Helen reads poems specially commissioned for The Verb which explore the music and place names she grew up with in Chesterfield and Sheffield. Her collection 'Division Street' is out soon from Chatto & Windus.

Produced by Faith Lawrence.

FRI 22:45 The Essay (b01n6w3j)

Inspirations of Visual Art

Before I Begin

Final essay in a series where Scots artists discuss the inspirations behind their art. Sculptor Kevin Harman explains how the extraordinary in everyday life inspires him.

Kevin Harman was born in Edinburgh He works across media, often using the very objects in which he finds his inspiration, as the principle component of his artworks. One of his ongoing projects is the creation of sculpture installations using materials discarded in builders' skips. In Harman's latest commission, 24/7 articles he purchased in twenty four hours spent in a local supermarket were used, over three weeks in his exhibition space, to create a variety of works to be auctioned in an "everything must go sale"? at the end of the show.
