Tom catches up with the Hungarian conductor and composer Ivan Fischer as he prepares to return to the BBC Proms with the orchestra he formed over forty years ago, the Budapest Festival Orchestra. He reflects on his relationship with the people and the politics of Hungary and talks about his endless desire to innovate and extend the musical experience of audiences. He also explains why in a world of AI and fake news, the trust between orchestra and audience is more valuable and vital than ever. Ahead of her Proms performance at the Glasshouse in Gateshead, singer, songwriter and multi-instrumentalist Angeline Morrison chats to Tom about her project "The Sorrow Songs - Folk Songs of Black British Experience". She wrote the album to give musical voice to the stories of Black Britons from through the centuries who she discovered were missing from folk repertoire. Angeline tells Tom how her songs are already starting to make their way into the folk clubs of Cornwall. A century ago, the first electrical recordings were released by major record labels on both sides of the Atlantic, revolutionising the listening experience, allowing people to hear far richer and more nature sounding recordings of their favourite artists and orchestras. We hear from producer and audio restorer Mark Obert-Thorn who has brought together many of the most significant recordings from that time for the Pristine label on a compilation called "1925: Landmarks from the Dawn of Electrical Recording". Mark explains why this was the single most important development in recording since its invention by Thomas Edison in 1877 and how it changed the course of musical history. SAT 12:00 Earlier... with Jools Holland (m002b7ch) Jools and guests share their musical favourites Jools shares his lifelong passion for classical music and the beautiful connections with jazz and blues. With fascinating guests each week, who bring their own favourite music and occasionally perform live in Jools's studio. Today, Jools's choices include music by Rebecca Clarke, Benny Goodman and Johannes Brahms, including performances from Clara Haskill, Stile Antico and Count Basie. His guest is the Razorlight drummer, musician and composer Andy Burrows who introduces music he loves by Elgar, Prokofiev and Goff Richards. To listen on most smart speakers just say "Ask BBC Sounds to play Earlier with Jools Holland". SAT 13:00 Record Review (m002g1g9) BBC Proms Composer: Arvo Pärt with Gillian Moore & Andrew McGregor Andrew McGregor with the best new recordings of classical music. 1330 BBC Proms Composer: Arvo Pärt Gillian Moore picks five indispensable recordings of works by	BBC Proms composer Pärt. c1430 Proms Recording To round off each edition of Record Review during the BBC Proms, Andrew introduces the Building a Library recommendation of a major work by a composer featured at this year's Proms. JS Bach: English Suite No. 4 in F Major, BWV 809 András Schiff, piano SAT 15:00 BBC Proms (m002g1gf) 2025 The Traitors A spine-tingling celebration of musical treachery inspired by worldwide TV phenomenon The Traitors, transported from the Scottish Highlands to the Royal Albert Hall for this special concert. Claudia Winkleman is your host as the combined forces of the BBC Scottish Symphony Orchestra, the BBC Singers and the BBC Symphony Chorus, directed by Karen Ní Bhroin, explore everything from epic orchestral favourites and operatic arias with betrayal at their heart, to modern day classics. Featuring Schubert's Ave Maria, Danse Macabre and O Fortuna from Carmina Burana. These are set alongside Olivia Rodrigo's Vampire, London Grammar's Hell to the Liars, Billie Eilish's Bad Guy and Sophie Ellis Bextor's Murder on the Dancefloor, all of them heard here with a gothic, symphonic twist and featuring guest singers Andrea Lykke, HAYLA and Darrell Smith. No Traitors concert would be complete without familiar figures and faces from the challenges and Round Tables who also loom large as the plot unfolds. This is your invitation to our musical exploration of the world of The Traitors, Faithful and Traitor alike. Don your cloak, fingerless gloves and eyeliner to lose yourself in a concert like no other. SAT 17:30 BBC Proms (m002g1gk) 2025 BBC Proms: Angeline Morrison - The Sorrow Songs (Folk Songs of Black British Experience) Live at the BBC Proms from the Glasshouse, British folksinger and instrumentalist Angeline Morrison is joined by singer and folk violinist Eliza Carthy, with percussionist and vocalist Alex Neilson and The Sorrow Songs Band for a programme of music recalling the stories of the people of the African diaspora and their subsequent contact with the British Isles. The concert features musical tales such as the 19th-century 'Unknown African Boy' telling of an enslaved child whose body was washed up on the Isles of Scilly. And 'Black John' - Britain's first Black horticulturalist; or 'The Beautiful Spotted Black Boy', an enslaved child whose vitiligo provoked a patchy complexion and caused him to be paraded as curiosity. Intimate, haunting and expressive this distinctive musical event from Stage Two of the Glasshouse on the banks of the Tyne in Gateshead sits firmly in a tradition, drawing on the essence of English Folk Song. The concert is presented from the stage by Angeline Morrison and introduced by Elizabeth Alker. SAT 19:30 BBC Proms (m002g1gp) 2025 Bach and Mendelssohn with Royal Northern Sinfonia
Supported by bbc.co.uk/programmes/

Live at the BBC Proms in Gateshead: Dinis Sousa conducts the Royal Northern Sinfonia and Chorus with the Huddersfield Choral Society and Voices of the River's Edge in Mendelssohn's Symphony No. 2 in B flat major, 'Lobgesang'. In the first half, pianist David Fray is the soloist in Bach's Keyboard Concerto No. 1.

Presented by Sarah Walker, live from The Glasshouse International Centre for Music.

Johann Sebastian Bach
Keyboard Concerto No. 1 in D minor, BWV 1052
David Fray (piano)
Royal Northern Sinfonia
Dinis Sousa (conductor)

8pm

Interval: A walk around the cultural highlights of Tyne & Wear, from Bede's monastery in Jarrow to an arts centre in a former nuclear bunker that attracted the likes of Picasso and Matisse to the region.

8.20pm

Felix Mendelssohn
Symphony No. 2 in B flat major, 'Lobgesang'
Adèle Charvet (mezzo soprano)
Benjamin Hulett (tenor)
Voices of the River's Edge
Huddersfield Choral Society
Chorus of Royal Northern Sinfonia
Royal Northern Sinfonia
Dinis Sousa (conductor)

Mendelssohn's Second Symphony is a 'Hymn of Praise', an expression of joy and faith, and replete with dances, fanfares and hymns. The dark, sober beauty of Bach's Keyboard Concerto in D minor offers a stark contrast.

SAT 21:45 The Lebrecht Interview (m002g1gt)

Cellist Alisa Weilerstein

Norman Lebrecht talks to Alisa Weilerstein, who at the age of 43 is one of the world's leading cellists. Alisa recalls growing up in a musical family in her native America and explains how she's managed to deal with her diabetes since the age of 9 and making her debut at the age of 13 playing Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations with the Cleveland Orchestra. Alisa talks about her admiration for fellow cellist Jacqueline du Pré and what she learnt from rehearsing Shostakovich's first cello concerto with its dedicatee, Mstislav Rostropovich. She is passionate about championing contemporary music having commissioned and premiered a number of pieces, and talks about her collaborations with a wide range of living composers. And beyond music, one of her major passions: the history of Russia, which she studied at degree level at Columbia University.

SAT 22:30 New Music Show (m002g1gz)

Constellations at BCMG

Tom Service presents world premieres by Cyborg Pianist Zubin Kanga and composer Anne Castex from the Constellations concert, a bold collaboration between Kanga, the Birmingham Contemporary Music Group, and the French contemporary music ensemble L'Instant Donné. Plus bárru bára - new music by Jason Yarde for the Norwegian Naval Forces Band, Nicholas Korth's Inscapes for tenor, natural horn and strings, the European premiere of Thomas Larcher's cello concerto, returning into darkness, and Pasale Criton's Alter, performed last year by Juliet Fraser at Donaueschingen.

SUN 06:30 Breakfast (m002g3nd)

Embrace the morning calm of classical music and birdsong

Emma Clarke presents Radio 3's Breakfast show. This morning's dawn chorus features the rock pipit, with brand new music from South African cellist and composer Abel Selaoocoe, and there's a quiet moment with a stunning arrangement of Vaugh Williams' Lark Ascending, along with romance of one of Puccini's most famous arias.

SUN 09:00 Sunday Morning (m002g3nj)

Your perfect Sunday soundtrack

Sarah Walker with three hours of classical music to reflect, restore and refresh.

Today, Sarah is in Newcastle for an exciting weekend of BBC Proms, and her choices include a glorious Magnificat by C.P.E. Bach, Mozart in a relaxed mood with a set of variations, and an orchestration by the founder of the Proms of a tempestuous Polish Dance.

She also has music for the summer season, including a Midsummer Vigil from Hugo Alfen, and a beautiful arrangement of Gershwin by American pianist Earl Wild.

This week's Choral Reflection takes us to renaissance Italy to hear a joyful motet by Palestrina that depicts Mary being taken up to heaven as the angels rejoice.

Plus, we journey to tropical Java to watch a puppet show...

Kathleen Marshall

The American director and choreographer Kathleen Marshall has been nominated for nine Tony awards, winning three times for Broadway productions of Wonderful Town, The Pajama Game and Anything Goes. She was the first woman to complete a trio of achievements - directing a play, directing a musical and choreographing a musical on Broadway.

She also won an Olivier Award for her 2021 production of Anything Goes in London. It was the first big musical to open after numerous Covid lockdowns, and received an ecstatic welcome from audiences and critics alike, hungry to get back into a theatre and enjoy a hugely uplifting show. More recently she has directed Irving Berlin's Top Hat in Chichester.

Her musical choices include Mozart, Chopin, Tchaikovsky and Duke Ellington.

SUN 13:30 Music Map (m002g3np)

A journey to the Jazz Suite 1 by Shostakovich

Sara Mohr-Pietsch navigates a path towards the Jazz Suite 1 by Dmitri Shostakovich. It was commissioned in 1934 by a Leningrad dance band, and he scored it for an extraordinary ensemble including a banjo and an electric Hawaiian lap guitar. On the way we encounter other music for banjo and Hawaiian guitar, plus pieces reflecting some of the other influences in the suite including traditional Jewish music. There are also performances from Shostakovich's circle of friends at the time, including a Haydn cello concerto played by Mstislav Rostropovich.

SUN 17:00 The Early Music Show (m002g3nt)

Heaven and Hell. Helen Charlston and Toby Carr at the York Early Music Festival

Hannah French presents the first of two programmes from mezzo-soprano Helen Charlston and lutenist Toby Carr at the recent York Early Music Festival, in which they explore music associated with Heaven and Hell.

Today, Hannah chats to Helen about all things heavenly, and we'll hear music by Purcell, Barbara Strozzi, Charpentier and Honoré D'Ambruy, alongside a contemporary piece for solo lute by Elliot Park.

SUN 18:00 Words and Music (m0023q85)
The Circus

Roll up roll up, it's time for the Circus. This week's Words and Music brings us the thrill of the Big Top. Readers Luke Treadaway and Phoebe Campbell take us through Angela Carter's encounter between a pig Sybil, a strong man and a tiger in Nights at the Circus, via evocations from Dickens, Kafka and the Goncourt Brothers to the "rapture and admiration" of Just William watching them put up the tent. We'll hear an extract from Seventy Years a Showman by 'Lord' George Sanger and poems celebrating the circus coming to town, with "the monkey and its bear" and "the lion in its lair"; and the "red and white clown." And we experience the thrill of a trapeze artist from Circus of Wonders by Elizabeth Macneal.

With music from Khachaturian's Masquerade Suite, Les Toreadors from Bizet's Carmen and the haunting Jugglers with Torchers by Svein Hundsnes, we also hear Being for the Benefit of Mr Kite, the Beatles' song which was inspired by a poster for Pablo Fanque's circuses, as well as Willkommen from Kander & Ebb's musical Cabaret and Send in the Clowns sung by Judy Collins.

Producer: Belinda Naylor

Bruckner: Symphony No. 7 in E major

Mariam Batsashvili, piano
BBC Scottish Symphony Orchestra
Ryan Wigglesworth, conductor

A melody heard in a dream, a tribute to a dying genius, a vision of cosmic beauty: Bruckner's Symphony No. 7 is the composer's musical memorial to Richard Wagner. It's a homage that elevated the Austrian composer to new heights, a musical walk around a magnificent cathedral. A contemporary tribute opens tonight's Prom: Ryan Wigglesworth's for Laura, after Bach, dedicated to the memory of former BBC Scottish Symphony Orchestra Leader Laura Samuel and inspired by her recording of a Bach Partita, played at her funeral. Mozart's stormy Piano Concerto No. 20 completes the programme, with Georgian pianist and former BBC Radio 3 New Generation Artist Mariam Batsashvili as the soloist.

MON 16:00 Composer of the Week (m002g5gn)

Arvo Pärt

Pushing Boundaries

Kate Molleson traces Pärt's avant-garde spirit as he comes of age in Soviet era Estonia.

Composer of the Week celebrates the 90th birthday of Arvo
Pärt, one of the world's most-performed and recognisable living composers. A composer who had the courage to defy Soviet edicts, to spend years searching for answers, to invent a personal language that pivots on past and present, on sound, silence and clarity. Throughout the week, Kate Molleson explores Pärt's landmark works and extraordinary story in conversation with his son Michael. And researchers from the Arvo Pärt Centre in Laulasmaa, Estonia provide exclusive insights into Pärt's more personal archive.

Today, Kate and Michael discuss Pärt's creative beginnings, from writing children's songs to seeking out "forbidden" modernist music as a student. His avant-garde curiosity would lead him to write the first 12-tone work in Estonia, but also get him into trouble with the Composers' Union.

MON 19:00 Classical Mixtape (m002g5gs)
30 minutes of music celebrating Euro 2025

Whilst football fans around the country continue to celebrate the Lionesses' historic victory over Spain in the Euro 2025 final, today's Classical Mixtape honours their achievement with a half hour sequence of back-to-back music associated with, or inspired by the beautiful game.

The mix opens with the broadcast premiere of English composer Shirley Thompson's "Momentum: Concerto for football and orchestra", written for the 2022 women's Euros, which the Lionesses also won. Other works include the seminal recording of Pavarotti singing Puccini's "Nessun Dorma" and Fauré's "Pavane", both famously used in past BBC TV coverage of the men's FIFA World Cup, and a number from the stage musical of "Bend it like Beckham" by Howard Goodall. Football loving composer Shostakovich's piano miniature "Football" sits alongside Michael Nyman's aptly named "After Extra Time" from "Final Score", and Poulenc's Laudamus Te from his setting of the Gloria is said to have been inspired by seeing a group of monks playing a match. The mixtape ends with an orchestral arrangement of Neil Diamond's "Sweet Caroline", which has become the fans' favourite anthem for the England women's football team.

Listen out for the samba "Mas que nada", usually associated with football in Brazil, but somehow capturing the mood and the moves when break out star Michelle Agyemang danced her way up to the podium to receive the award for Euro 2025's young player of the tournament.

Beethoven and Birtwistle

The BBC Scottish Symphony Orchestra and Ryan Wigglesworth perform Beethoven's Symphony No. 3 and Birtwistle's Earth Dances.

Presented by Andrew McGregor, live from the Royal Albert Hall, London.

Birtwistle: Earth Dances

c.8.10pm

Interval: Helen Gordon, author of Notes From Deep Time, describes her researches into the earth's crust and the layers which have inspired the Harrison Birtwistle composition. She describes visiting 3 billion year old rocks in Scotland, volcanoes in Naples and earthquake monitoring in California.

c.8.30pm

Beethoven: Symphony No. 3 in E flat major, 'Eroica'

Harrison Birtwistle's monumental Earth Dances returns to the Proms for the first time this century. This contemporary orchestral masterpiece boasts tectonic shifts that surge and fissure with inexorable, elemental force. Ryan Wigglesworth and the BBC Scottish Symphony Orchestra pair it with the mould-breaking orchestral pinnacle of another age. Grandier than anything that came before, Beethoven's Symphony No. 3, the 'Eroica', ushers in Romanticism, revolutionising both the form itself and expectations of what a symphony can – and should – be.

Sara Mohr-Pietsch presents an adventurous, immersive soundtrack for late-night listening, from classical to contemporary and everything in between.

MON 23:30 'Round Midnight (m002g5gz)

The Stepney Sisters' 4/4

'Round Midnight is presented by award-winning saxophonist Soweto Kinch. This weekday late-night show celebrates the thriving UK jazz scene and spotlights the best new music alongside incredible acts from past decades.

In a special edition of our 4/4 feature, Eibur, Charlene and Chanté Stepney share some of the albums that were shaped and produced by their late father, the seminal Chicago composer, musician, and dedicated parent Charles Stepney. Amidst his expansive repertoire, Charles is responsible for well-loved orchestrations and melodies for some of the leading artists of the day including Earth, Wind and Fire, Rotary Connection, Ramsey Lewis and The Dells. Never one to be boxed in, his compositions and productions transcended genres, while maintaining a signature Stepney sound.

The Stepney Sisters will be sharing a new project Rotary Connection 222 created in tribute to and to honour the legacy of Charles Stepney. They will be performing at We Out Here festival in Dorset this August, featuring a band formed by the sisters and Chicago bassist and bandleader Junius Paul.

To begin their week taking us into the musical world of Charles Stepney, the Stepney Sisters choose an album by one of music's timeless voices, which was produced by and features Charles Stepney on the organ.

Also in the programme, music from Ineza, Tim Boniface, and Courtney Pine.

Tadaaki Otaka, conductor

A Romantic classic meets two 20th-century masterworks in a concert of widescreen orchestral drama. From its thunderous opening chords to its heartbreaking slow movement, Rachmaninov's Piano Concerto No. 2 is an emotional tour de force. Vadym Kholodenko joins the BBC National Orchestra of Wales and Conductor Laureate Tadaaki Otaka. Framing the concerto are two orchestral showpieces: Bacewicz's vibrant Concerto for String Orchestra – whose motoric outer movements contrast with a sublime Andante – and the daring invention of Lutosławski's folk-inspired Concerto for Orchestra.

THU 16:00 Composer of the Week (m002g22v)

Arvo Pärt

New Horizons

Kate Molleson and Michael Pärt discuss his family's forced emigration and their journey into the unknown.

Composer of the Week celebrates the 90th birthday of Arvo Pärt, one of the world's most-performed and recognisable living composers. A composer who had the courage to defy Soviet edicts, to spend years searching for answers, to invent a personal language that pivots on past and present, on sound, silence and clarity. Throughout the week, Kate Molleson explores Pärt's landmark works and extraordinary story in conversation with his son Michael. And researchers from the Arvo Pärt Centre in Laulasmaa, Estonia provide exclusive insights into Pärt's more personal archive.

Today, Kate and Michael look back on the moment it became impossible for his parents to stay in their homeland and the extraordinary scene of Pärt's forbidden music accidentally resonating around the departure hall of a Belarusian border check point. Journeying into the unknown, the family had to start afresh in Berlin, where Pärt's music found a global audience and new collaborators.

Rachmaninov and Copland

Live at the BBC Proms: The BBC Philharmonic Orchestra with conductor Joshua Weilerstein and clarinet player Martin Fröst play Rachmaninov, Copland, Artie Shaw and Elsa Barraine.

Presented by Katie Derham, live from the Royal Albert Hall, London

Elsa Barraine: Symphony No. 2
Aaron Copland: Clarinet Concerto
Artie Shaw: Clarinet Concerto

c.7.15pm

Interval: The writer Leah Broad transports Katie Derham from the Royal Albert Hall to the thrum of urban America, talking about the jazz scene, and discussing the rich contribution that European composers like Rachmaninov made to the American musical scene.

c.7.35pm

Sergey Rachmaninov: Symphonic Dances

Martin Fröst, clarinet
BBC Philharmonic Orchestra
Joshua Weilerstein, conductor

The thrum of urban America – jazz clubs and bustling sidewalks, pulsing Latin rhythms and night-time lights – runs through this Prom given by Joshua Weilerstein and the BBC Philharmonic Orchestra. Rachmaninov's enigmatic final masterpiece, the Symphonic Dances, blends Russian soul with bold colours from the composer's adopted homeland. Copland's Clarinet Concerto draws on the virtuoso skills of jazz legend Benny Goodman, while bandleader Artie Shaw wrote his Clarinet Concerto for his own considerable skills as a player. Elsa Barraine's tautly lyrical Symphony No. 2 opens the programme.

Arvo Pärt

Home At Last

Kate Molleson asks Michael Pärt about his father's return to Estonia and his growing legacy.

Composer of the Week celebrates the 90th birthday of Arvo Pärt, one of the world's most-performed and recognisable living composers. A composer who had the courage to defy Soviet edicts, to spend years searching for answers, to invent a personal language that pivots on past and present, on sound, silence and clarity. Throughout the week, Kate Molleson explores Pärt's landmark works and extraordinary story in conversation with his son Michael. And researchers from the Arvo Pärt Centre in Laulasmaa, Estonia provide exclusive insights into Pärt's more personal archive.

Today, we bring the biography full circle. After 30 years in exile, Pärt reconnects with his homeland, and finds a forest haven for his musical legacy - the Arvo Pärt Centre. Kate and Michael discuss the impact of Pärt's homecoming, archivist Karin Rõngelep tells us about his music's impact on listeners, and we hear some of Pärt's more recent music.

Yunchan Lim Plays Rachmaninov

Live at the BBC Proms: The City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra & the BBC Singers with conductor Kazuki Yamada & pianist Yunchan Lim perform Adams, Rachmaninov & Berio

Presented by Hannah French, live from the Royal Albert Hall, London

John Adams: The Chairman Dances
Sergey Rachmaninov: Piano Concerto No. 4 in G minor

8.15pm

Interval: Gillian Moore joins Hannah French to uncover the story of Berio's eclectic Sinfonia

8.35pm

Luciano Berio: Sinfonia

Yunchan Lim, piano
BBC Singers
City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra
Kazuki Yamada, conductor

After a 'dazzling' Proms debut last year, pianist and global phenomenon Yunchan Lim returns, joining Kazuki Yamada and the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra for Rachmaninov's final piano concerto. Rich in scope and ambition, tinged with the jazz rhythms and harmonies of the composer's new homeland, it's a technical tour de force

Musical visions from the New World continue in the two other works: John Adams's 'foxtrot for orchestra' The Chairman Dances, a surreal set-piece from his hit opera Nixon in China, in which a young Mao Zedong dances with the future Madame Mao; and Berio's iconic Sinfonia (dedicated to Leonard Bernstein) – an explosive, psychedelic remix of classical music's past that asks big questions about its future

FRI 22:00 Late Junction (m002g26q)

Vocal weavings, fresh rituals

Verity Sharp presents a walk through soundscapes, musings on accidental utterances and folkloric reimaginings of cult classic soviet film scores in another ear-bending journey through sound.

Featuring Viv Corringham's latest in a series of 'Soundwalkscapes', in which voice and field recordings blend to draw the listener towards the rhythm of the everyday. Shouts, squeaks and moans take centre stage in Luke Calzonetti's 'Blue Voice' as we ponder these noises devoid of their context; caught somewhere between psychological study and cartoon slapstick. There's also a fresh, melodic and folk-tinged interpretation of the long lost cult Slovakian cult film 'Dragon's Return' from Oren Ambarchi and Fredrik Rasten.

Elsewhere in the show there's distorted post-punk afrobeat fusion from Al Karpenter, rousing chants of funeral rites from the Afro-Colombian Pacific and Alexander Holm's curated stroll through his memory driven sonic rituals.
