Tom Service with guests, stories and the perfect classical soundtrack for the weekend! Tom is joined by the composer and conductor Thomas Adès. As a composer, Adès has created a stunning musical language all of his own and is one of the world's most inventive and in demand composers. Described as a 'modern masterpiece', his multi-award winning ballet 'Dante' is being performed at the Proms this week, the first part by the LA Phil and Gustavo Dudamel and the second with the young players of the National Youth Orchestra, with whom Adès has a long association. Some of those players will be joining Tom in the studio to play an exclusive live session and chat about their concert happening later that day at the BBC Proms. Also, as part of our focus on musical Creators, Tom talks to the Mexican composer Gabriela Ortiz. Her music fuses Mexican traditions with contemporary classical music and has won her Best Contemporary Classical Composition at the Grammys for the past two years, including her ballet Revolución diamantina, which is given its UK premiere at the Proms this week. She chats to Tom about her musical language and background.	SAT 12:00 Earlier... with Jools Holland (m002ztdc) Jools and guests share their musical favourites Jools shares his lifelong passion for classical music and the beautiful connections with jazz and blues. With fascinating guests each week, who bring their own favourite music and occasionally perform live in Jools's studio. Today, Jools's choices include music by Schubert, Debussy and Beamish, with performances by pianist Piotr Anderszewski and the 12 cellists of the Berlin Philharmonic. His guest is the singer and actor Ute Lemper, who introduces music she loves by Kurt Weill, Michael Nyman and Maurice Ravel. SAT 13:00 Key Changes: Radio 3's Essential History of Classical Music (m002ztdf) 1794: Les enfants de la patrie 1794, Paris. At the height of the Reign of Terror, the pianist and composer Hélène de Montgeroult stands accused before the revolutionary authorities. According to a story that has become part of musical legend, she escapes the guillotine by improvising on La Marseillaise, transforming a patriotic song into a demonstration of artistic brilliance. As France is reshaped by revolution, musicians find themselves navigating a rapidly changing world. Aristocratic salons give way to public festivals, revolutionary songs fill the streets, and figures such as Hélène de Montgeroult and Joseph de Bologne must adapt to new political realities. Amid upheaval, violence and uncertainty, music becomes a powerful tool for expressing collective identity, civic ideals and national belonging. Gillian Moore is joined by a roster of distinguished historians for this major new BBC Radio 3 series, charting a course through 1000 years of classical music history. For the next eight programmes, historian Simon Schama is in the chair, as together they explore the rich musical world of the Classical era. Producer: Zerlina Vulliamy Academic Consultant: Professor Laura Tunbridge, University of Oxford Story Consultant: Kate Leys Series Editor for BBC Audio: Emma Harding Key Changes theme tune composed by Joseph Howard and performed by the BBC National Orchestra of Wales, conducted by Kerem Hasan. Proms Across the UK: Russian Classics

Live at the BBC Proms in Bristol: Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra & Adam Hickox, with cellist Maximilian Hornung, perform 20th century works by Shostakovich, Gubaidulina and Rachmaninov.

Presented by Sarah Walker, live from Bristol Beacon.

Dmitry Shostakovich: Festive Overture

Dmitry Shostakovich: Cello Concerto No. 1 in E flat major

c. 5.40pm

Interval: Writer of modern fairy tales Angela Carter lived in Bristol during the 1960s. Joan Passey and Marie Mulvey-Roberts trace her footsteps and literary influence.

c.6.05pm

Sofia Gubaidulina: Fairy-Tale Poem

Sergey Rachmaninov: Symphonic Dances

Maximilian Hornung (cello)
Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra
Adam Hickox (conductor)

Rachmaninov's Symphonic Dances is a summation of his career, a whirling phantasmagoria of rhythm and melody. The Russian spirit also runs through both Shostakovich's Festive Overture and his sardonically witty Cello Concerto No. 1. Gubaidulina's Fairy-Tale Poem introduces a whimsical element, a sumptuous musical fantasy about the adventures of a piece of chalk.

SAT 19:30 BBC Proms (m002ztdp)

Berlioz's 'Symphonie fantastique'

Live at the BBC Proms: Thomas Adès conducts the National Youth Orchestra in Berlioz's 'Symphonie fantastique' and in his own Dante-inspired Purgatorio.

Presented by Katie Derham, live from the Royal Albert Hall, London

Liszt: Mephisto Waltz No. 1

Thomas Adès: Dante – Part 2: Purgatorio

c.8.20pm

Interval: We explore the influence of Dante, the Italian philosopher and writer who used Tuscan dialect in his poem Divine Comedy, completed around 1321 shortly before his death. Dr Julia Hartley is a lecturer in comparative literature at the University of Glasgow

c.8.40pm

Berlioz: Symphonie fantastique

National Youth Orchestra
Thomas Adès (conductor)

Does the Devil really have all the best tunes? When it comes to classical music, he just might. Thomas Adès conducts The National Youth Orchestra – over 150 of Britain's most talented teenagers – in a thrilling musical journey to Hell and back. Follow Faust into the irresistible, whirling dance of Liszt's Mephisto Waltz No. 1; contemplate Purgatory, 'a sort of pre-dawn, before the sun of Paradise', in Purgatorio – the central panel of Adès's own Grammy Award-winning, Dante-inspired ballet; and surrender to the vast soundscapes and phantasmagoria of Berlioz's Symphonie fantastique, culminating in a horrifying 'Witches' Sabbath'.

Proms Across the UK: Steve Reich at 90

Paraorchestra and Charles Hazlewood recorded in concert at Bristol Beacon. Steve Reich's Music for 18 Musicians.

Presented by Sarah Walker at the BBC Proms.

Steve Reich: Music for 18 Musicians

Paraorchestra
Charles Hazlewood, Faye Stoesser (directors)

Paraorchestra, the bold collective of disabled and non-disabled musicians, brings an immersive take on Steve Reich's Music for 18 Musicians. When it was first performed 50 years ago, the work made Reich a household name and propelled Minimalism into the mainstream. Here it's performed with the players distributed on plinths across Beacon Hall, breaking the barrier between audience and performers and allowing you to explore the work's sublime shifting phases as you move among pulsing marimbas, pianos and vocals, or simply remain still and allow yourself to be enveloped.

SAT 23:00 New Music Show (m002ztdt)

Gerald Barry's La Plus Forte

A broadcast of Gerald Barry's short opera 'La Plus Forte' featuring the mezzo-soprano Alison Scherzer, the BBC Concert Orchestra and conductor Jérôme Kuhn. Based on the late 19th century play 'The Stronger' by Swedish playwright August Strindberg, it's a subtle cat-and-mouse game that turns Strindberg's dynamic on its head. First premiered in Paris in 2007, this new recording came out in April this year.

Also, music by American composer David Lang, from the 2024 Venice Music Biennale (his string quartet 'daisy'). Plus the latest New Music Show recordings from around the UK, as well as an array of new releases.

Presented by Kate Molleson.

SUN 09:00 Sunday Morning (m002ztbw)

Three Hours of Classical Sparkle

Sarah Walker, live from Bristol, with a Sunday mix peppered with the music and musicians featured at this year's Bristol Proms.

This week's Choral Reflection features the music of a little known Bristolian composer - William Child, and there's music from a new release by pianist Cecile Licad.

There's also youthful romance in music by Shostakovich, a heartfelt Handelian aria, and a chance to hear a stunning recording of Walton's Violin Concerto by violinist Akiko Suwanai, with the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra and conductor Sakari Oramo in full.

Also, Sarah takes inspiration from another festival happening in Bristol for her Sunday Sequence....

A Tandem Production for BBC Radio 3.

SUN 12:00 Private Passions (m002jssy)

Richard Armitage

The actor Richard Armitage refuses to be pigeon-holed. He first made a national impact as the mill owner John Thornton in the BBC adaptation of Elizabeth Gaskell's North and South. Audiences around the world know him as Thorin Oakenshield in The Hobbit trilogy, directed by Peter Jackson. He's played a serial killer in Hannibal, a spy in Spooks, and has starred in four Harlan Coben thrillers on Netflix.

He's also written thrillers: the most recent is The Cut, which examines childhood trauma and the dangers of buried secrets - and also draws on his own musical experiences, because the main character, like Richard, plays the cello.

His choices include works by Arvo Part, Mahler, Rameau, and Gluck.

Presenter Michael Berkeley
Producer Clare Walker

SUN 13:30 Music Map (m002ztby)

Debussy's La Mer

Sara Mohr-Pietsch takes us on a listening journey towards Claude Debussy's orchestral work La Mer.

On the way, we encounter seascapes from a gentle jazz trio by Bill Evans to Joseph Haydn's 'Rolling in Foaming Billows' from his oratorio The Creation. La Mer was partly inspired by Japanese artworks, and we hear another art-inspired piece by Ottorino Respighi, plus a Portrait of a Japanese Garden by Kaija Saariaho. And, reflecting the fact that Debussy worked on the score of La Mer in Eastbourne, there's a vintage tune from Albert Sandler and his Grand Hotel (Eastbourne) Orchestra.

Proms Across the UK: Joby Talbot's 'Path of Miracles'

Live at the BBC Proms: Tenebrae and Nigel Short perform Joby Talbot's 'Path of Miracles'.

Presented by Sarah Walker, live from St George's Bristol.

Follow the Camino – the ancient pilgrim route – to Spain's Santiago de Compostela in the spiritually charged choral ecstasy of Joby Talbot's Path of Miracles: a pilgrimage in sound. The 500-mile musical journey starts at the Abbey of Roncesvalles at the foot of the Pyrenees, travelling across the country via the great cathedrals of Burgos and León, and with music that sees minimalist patterns meet the beauty of plainchant and bell chimes. Nigel Short conducts his award-winning choir Tenebrae – the work's 'magnificent' commissioners – in this Proms premiere.

SUN 17:30 New Generation Artists (m002ztc4)

2026 Proms season showcase - Julius Asal and the Astatine Trio

Georgia Mann introduces specially-recorded performances from some of Radio 3's current New Generation Artists. Today, the UK-based Astatine Trio play one of the ever-inventive Haydn's piano trios and the German pianist Julius Asal enjoys the quick-fire mood swings of Bartok's Suite.

Bartok: Suite Sz.62, Op.14
Julius Asal (piano)

Rimsky-Korsakov: It was not the wind - Vesnoy Op.43 no.2
Erika Baikoff (soprano), Sholto Kynoch (piano)

For over a quarter of a century, Radio 3's prestigious talent scheme has provided an invaluable springboard for many of today's leading international soloists and chamber music ensembles. Indeed, a list of the former alumni reads like a Who's Who of the international music scene with names like Lisa Batiashvili, Igor Levit, Sean Shibe, Alison Balsom, Mark Simpson and the Belcea Quartet.

The OAE Plays Mozart and Haydn

Live at the BBC Proms: The OAE and Peter Whelan are joined by Erin Morley, Helen Charlston, Guy Cutting and William Thomas to perform Haydn's 'Nelson Mass' and music by Mozart.

Presented by Ian Skelly, live from the Royal Albert Hall.

Zelenka: Miserere in C minor
Mozart: Masonic Funeral Music
Mozart: Aria 'Schon lacht der holde Frühling' Mozart: Aria 'Vorrei spiegarmi, oh Dio!'

c. 7:45pm

Interval: Jeremy Summerly talks about the relationship between Haydn and Horatio Nelson, 1st Viscount Nelson, and guides us through the history and music of Haydn's Nelson Mass.

c. 8:05pm

Haydn: Mass in D minor, 'Nelson Mass'

Erin Morley (soprano)
Helen Charlston (mezzo-soprano)
Guy Cutting (tenor)
William Thomas (bass)
Choir of the Age of Enlightenment
Orchestra of the Age of Enlightenment
Peter Whelan (conductor)

A musical postcard from 18th-century Vienna. The threat to Austria from Napoleon's army is vividly rendered in the turbulent opening of Haydn's choral tour de force, the 'Nelson Mass', but it's Nelson's victory we hear in the celebratory ending. There's brooding spiritual darkness from Zelenka's Miserere and Mozart's Masonic Funeral Music – written in response to the deaths of two of the composer's fellow Freemasons. Soprano Erin Morley is the soloist in two of Mozart's showstopping 'insertion' arias.

Proms Across the UK: Kurtág's 'Kafka Fragments'

Live at the BBC Proms in Bristol: soprano Anu Komi and violinist Sakari Oramo perform Kurtág's intense and searching Kafka Fragments.

Presented by Alex Humphreys

György Kurtág: Kafka Fragments

Anu Komi (soprano)
Sakari Oramo (violin)

Part song cycle, part personal diary, at once a duet and a duel between soprano and violin, György Kurtág's Kafka Fragments is a collection of musical aphorisms – an armful of miniatures that both provoke and defy interpretation. Fragile and hauntingly lyrical, violent and sensual, these distilled works – few of them longer than a minute – explore the strange kinship between composer and author in music haunted by the ghosts of Bach, Bartók, Schumann and more. Celebrated Finnish musicians Anu Komi and Sakari Oramo perform this intimate recital as part of the composer's 100th-birthday celebrations.

SUN 22:00 Night Tracks (m002ztcb)

Music for the still of night

Hannah Peel presents an adventurous, immersive soundtrack for late-night listening, from classical to contemporary and everything in between.

SUN 23:30 Unclassified (m002tmjj)

Please Plant This Programme

Join Elizabeth Alker with a selection of fresh music from genre-defying artists as we journey through verdant landscapes of ambient and experimental sounds. Thoughts of the natural world and the cosmos are never far away, with an ode to the sun from vocal ensemble Shards and a meditation on the passing of time from Lea Bertucci. Singer Haydn Thorpe sets the words of nature writer Robert McFarlane to offer an evocative lament for a landscape marked by military tests and reclaimed by nature; and Hannah Peel and Bei Bei Wang serve up a deliciously surreal track to awaken the insects.

MON 16:00 Composer of the Week (m0018ylq)
Hélène de Montgeroult (1764-1836)

Noble Beginnings

This week, Donald introduces us to the remarkable life story and unsung musical innovations of Hélène de Montgeroult.

There aren't many composers who can claim that music saved their life – at least, in the literal sense. But for Hélène de Montgeroult, it was her astounding powers of improvisation that got her out of the stickiest situation imaginable, hauled in front of the guillotine during the French Revolution. This week, we'll follow her rollercoaster tale and hear how she had her own revolutionary impact on the piano literature. Described as a precursor of Romanticism, anticipating the language of Schubert and Mendelssohn, audiences said her playing "made the keys speak". She broke ground as the first female professor at the Paris Conservatoire and left behind 600 pages of music, including a complete course for piano which elevated the technical study into a miniature lyrical artform. As Donald pieces together her tantalising story, he's joined by pianist Clare Hammond, who has spent recent years getting to know Montgeroult and recording an album of her études.

Today, we hear about Hélène's early years, growing up in aristocratic circles. For young women, the harpsichord was wielded as a tool for courtship, but for Helene, her musical prospects immediately ran deeper. Little did she know then that her noble background would eventually become one of her biggest artistic obstacles and would even someday put her life in danger.

Award-winning Norwegian violinist Vilde Frang is the soloist in Berg's heartbreaking elegy of a Violin Concerto, with its embedded Bach chorale, dedicated 'to the memory of an angel'. Completed in the dying days of the Second World War, Stravinsky's Symphony in Three Movements offers a 'cinematographic impression of the war' – jagged and convulsively rhythmic. Pastoral peace meets infernal horrors in two vividly descriptive orchestral classics. Cuckoos and nightingales call, a brook gently gurgles and tavern musicians strike up a dance in Beethoven's 'Pastoral' Symphony. Thomas Adès paints a bleak landscape in Inferno – the first panel of his Dante ballet (hear part two, Purgatorio, performed by the National Youth Orchestra on 8 August). WED 16:00 Composer of the Week (m0018yq0) Hélène de Montgeroult (1764-1836) Get Out of Jail Card This week, Donald introduces us to the remarkable life story and unsung musical innovations of Hélène de Montgeroult. There aren't many composers who can claim that music saved their life – at least, in the literal sense. But for Hélène de Montgeroult, it was her astounding powers of improvisation that got her out of the stickiest situation imaginable, hauled in front of the guillotine during the French Revolution. This week, we'll follow her rollercoaster tale and hear how she had her own revolutionary impact on the piano literature. Described as a precursor of Romanticism, anticipating the language of Schubert and Mendelssohn, audiences said her playing "made the keys speak". She broke ground as the first female professor at the Paris Conservatoire and left behind 600 pages of music, including a complete course for piano which elevated the technical study into a miniature lyrical artform. As Donald pieces together her tantalising story, he's joined by pianist Clare Hammond, who has spent recent years getting to know Montgeroult and recording an album of her études. Today, Hélène is back home in Paris – but widowed and locked up in a jail cell. Facing the guillotine, we hear how she used her musical talents to save her own life, and how she was set free with a new vocation. Donald and Clare discuss the impact of this extraordinary episode as well as her pioneering approach as a piano teacher. --	---	---

Live at the BBC Proms: The Los Angeles Philharmonic and conductor Gustavo Dudamel perform Beethoven's Seventh Symphony and are joined by the Los Angeles Master Choral for Gabriela Ortiz's Revolución diamantina.

Presented by Martin Handley, live from the Royal Albert Hall, London.

Ludwig van Beethoven: Symphony No. 7 in A major

c.7.35pm

Interval: Martin Handley talks to composer Gabriela Ortiz about the ideas behind her piece Revolución diamantina ahead of its UK premiere. Inspired by Mexico City's 2019 "Glitter Revolution" protests against gender-based violence, the work transforms the acts of feminist activism into a powerful orchestral score exploring resistance, solidarity and the demand for social change.

c.7.55pm

Gabriela Ortiz: Revolución diamantina (UK premiere)

Los Angeles Master Choral
Los Angeles Philharmonic
Gustavo Dudamel (conductor)

In the second of their two Proms, the Los Angeles Philharmonic and its Music Director Gustavo Dudamel again pair a Beethoven symphony with a contemporary ballet. The obsessive, often wild rhythms of Beethoven's Symphony No. 7 – famously described by Wagner as 'the apotheosis of the dance' – meet the politically charged pulse of Gabriela Ortiz's Revolución diamantina: music 'full of visceral primeval rhythms and mysterious, soulful sound-worlds'. Taking Mexico's 2019 Glitter Revolution as its starting point, this groove-driven, urgent score – 'a ritual in motion' – roars against female oppression in music of fierce, hypnotic beauty.

Hélène de Montgeroult (1764-1836)

Behind Closed Doors

This week, Donald introduces us to the remarkable life story and unsung musical innovations of Hélène de Montgeroult.

There aren't many composers who can claim that music saved their life – at least, in the literal sense. But for Hélène de Montgeroult, it was her astounding powers of improvisation that got her out of the stickiest situation imaginable, hauled in front of the guillotine during the French Revolution. This week, we'll follow her rollercoaster tale and hear how she had her own revolutionary impact on the piano literature. Described as a precursor of Romanticism, anticipating the language of Schubert and Mendelssohn, audiences said her playing "made the keys speak". She broke ground as the first female professor at the Paris Conservatoire and left behind 600 pages of music, including a complete course for piano which elevated the technical study into a miniature lyrical artform. As Donald pieces together her tantalising story, he's joined by pianist Clare Hammond, who has spent recent years getting to know Montgeroult and recording an album of her études.

Today, Donald explores the twist and turns of Hélène's private life, from her illegitimate son, who was possibly conceived in prison, to her three marriages and her not-so-secret affair with the Baron of Tremont. Also, Donald and Clare talk about how intimacy was central to her music-making, which mainly took place in private spheres.

James Gaffigan (conductor)

James Gaffigan and the BBC Symphony Orchestra mark the 250th anniversary of the US Declaration of Independence with 100 years of American music. South Korean pianist Yeol Eum Son joins the orchestra for Gershwin's Piano Concerto in F major – its Charleston rhythms and songful slow movement capturing the energy of 20th-century New York. Samuel Barber's rarely heard Symphony No. 1 in One Movement marries the lyrical intensity of the composer's beloved Adagio with taut structural drama. The concert opens with the UK premiere of contemporary jazz great Wynton Marsalis's mercurial, kaleidoscopic Concerto for Orchestra.

of Music Symphony Orchestra conducted by Esa-Pekka Salonen.

The programme also visits the Verbier Festival for Saint-Saëns's sparkling Introduction and Rondo capriccioso, performed by violinist Marc Bouchkov and pianist Julien Quentin. And from the Granada Festival of Early Music, Odhecaton and conductor Paolo da Col perform Josquin des Prez's radiant motet O bone et dulcissime Jesu.

From Copenhagen, comes two chamber music highlights:
Grażyna Bacewicz's spirited First Piano Quintet and Poulenc's elegant Flute Sonata.

FRI 16:00 Composer of the Week (m0018ynd)

Hélène de Montgeroult (1764-1836)

Unsilenced

This week, Donald introduces us to the remarkable life story and unsung musical innovations of Hélène de Montgeroult.

There aren't many composers who can claim that music saved their life – at least, in the literal sense. But for Hélène de Montgeroult, it was her astounding powers of improvisation that got her out of the stickiest situation imaginable, hauled in front of the guillotine during the French Revolution. This week, we'll follow her rollercoaster tale and hear how she had her own revolutionary impact on the piano literature. Described as a precursor of Romanticism, anticipating the language of Schubert and Mendelssohn, audiences said her playing "made the keys speak". She broke ground as the first female professor at the Paris Conservatoire and left behind 600 pages of music, including a complete course for piano which elevated the technical study into a miniature lyrical artform. As Donald pieces together her tantalising story, he's joined by pianist Clare Hammond, who has spent recent years getting to know
Montgeroult and recording an album of her études.

Today, Donald and Clare chat about Hélène's musical imprint and how she's now being brought back from obscurity, having all but disappeared from the story of French music. We hear about the scandal of her exit from the Paris Conservatoire and how her pedagogical piano method may have had something to do with it. They dig deeper into her magnum opus and discuss what her astonishing music has to offer to players and listeners today.

Orchestra bring another genre-bending symphonic adventure to Proms.

Presented by Jumoké Fashola, live from the Royal Albert Hall, London. Songs to include:

I Heard it Through the Grapevine
Too Busy Thinking About My Baby
How Sweet It Is (To Be Loved By You)
Can I Get a Witness
It Takes Two
Ain't Nothing Like The Real Thing
If I could Build my Whole World Around You
Your Precious Love
My Mistake (Was to love you)
You're All I Need to Get By Ain't No Mountain High Enough
Let's Get It On Mercy Mercy Me
Inner City Blues
Here, my dear
After the dance
Got to Give It Up
What's Going On

Interval: Director of V&A East Gus Casely-Hayford shares his love of Marvin Gaye's music and discusses the opening show
The Music is Black: A British Story, and the book he has written celebrating some of the museum's collection Objects & Us: Why Things Matter.

Conductor Edwin Outwater

With velvety vocals packing an emotional punch and songs straddling soul, Motown, gospel, R&B and funk, Marvin Gaye embraced a unique range spanning intimacy and protest, the physical and the spiritual. A pioneer of soul-baring songwriting, he has influenced countless artists, from Stevie Wonder and Prince to hip hop and rap artists. The BBC Concert Orchestra and Edwin Outwater, with special guest Luke James, pay tribute to a musical icon, joined by guest singers for new orchestral arrangements of hits Gaye recorded with close collaborator Tammi Terrell (such as 'Ain't No Mountain High Enough'), as well as favourites including 'I Heard it Through the Grapevine', 'What's Going On' and 'Ain't Nothing Like the Real Thing'.

Savina Yannatou & Johannes "Mo'ong" Santoso Pribadi in session

Join Verity Sharp as she presents the fruits of our latest remote collaboration session with Greek singer Savina Yannatou meeting Indonesian composer Johannes "Mo'ong" Santoso Pribadi for some long-distance musical merry-making.

Savina Yannatou is a Greek vocalist and composer whose work includes improvising early music, throat singing and free improvisation. Since 1993, Yannatou has worked with the group of Thessaloniki-based musicians Primavera en Salonico and has composed for the National Theatre of Greece and the Neos Kosmos Theater, amongst many others. Influenced initially by Montserrat Figueras and Joan Baez, she has collaborated with artists from Can's Damo Suzuki and free jazz bassist Barry Guy to transdisciplinary artist Joana Sá.

Johannes "Mo'ong" Santoso Pribadi is a Lithuanian-based Indonesian-born composer and experimental artist. As well as being dedicated to the exploration of the traditional music of the Indonesian Archipelago, he also builds his own instruments from found objects and everyday items. He says, "it's also about decolonising oneself and the systems we live within. The standard is a legacy of imperialism. By building my own instruments, I want to establish my own standard." Mo'ong is also part of two collaborative projects: one of these is Raja Kirik, with Yennu Ariendra, whose sound is rooted in shamanic trance dance music, inspired by a Hindu-Buddhist-era dance from the 11th Century; the other project is Takkak Takkak, alongside Berlin-based Japanese producer Shigeru Ishihara (aka Scotch Rolex).

Produced by Cat Gough.
